

Dear Parents/Carers,

On Tuesday 4th December, Jet Class will be hosting our own celebration of local produce and gardening by taking part in the RHS (Royal Horticultural Society) BIG SOUP SHARE.

We will be making soup to share at lunch time on this day – so no extra lunch will be needed – maybe a healthy pudding option if you want, but that’s all. The children have already carried out a class survey and decided on the two most popular soups!

As part of our IPC Science project we will be making bread as well – all the while checking what scientific processes are happening during the bread making process!

We will take plenty of pictures to share with the RHS on Twitter via our school account @LanghamVillSch

All of Carol’s cooking hygiene rules apply: hair tied back, no nail varnish, hands will be washed and we will be focusing on our TEAMWORK skills – helping and supporting each other.

Thanks, as always for your support

Mrs Cotton 😊
